Arnold and Norris Winners On Republican Ticket and Welch And Gorman On Democratic

Full Returns Not Yet Available But Early Returns Indicate That These Men Will Be Standard Bearers

POLLUM IS THE NOMINEE FOR CORONER

There was a light vote polled all over Clearfield county yesterday and in consequence thereof the prognosticators are holding up their forecasts until all the returns are in. By reason of the smallness of the vote it will be hard to determine the winners in several cases until virtually every district is heard from.

On the Republican ticket John Arnold, of DuBois, has been nominated for district attorney, while Wesley P. Norris, of Clearfield, likely the winner for sheriff and Dr. J. I. Pollum, of DuBois, for coroner and Carl Anderson of Cooper for jury commissioner.

The contest is much closer on the Democratic ticket although Walter Welch looks safe for re-nomination as district attorney, while A. M. Gorman of LaJosa, is in the lead for sheriff. Albert Y. Straw will likely be re-named for jury commissioner. Dr. Lewis Rowles, of Clearfield, may be named for coroner, although many DuBois Democrats wrote in the name of Dr. Pollum, one of the Republican candidates.

DUBOIS ARRANGING GREAT SEND OFF FOR SOLDIERS

Men Were Entertained at Performance of Birth of a Nation

This is the day; a day that will be remembered by DuBois people for a long time. It will witness the largest exodus of young men for the new national army ever sent out from here. It is possibly not the largest group that ever left for war but it is the largest number ever sent out for the national army. They will depart at 2:06 o'clock this afternoon on a special train over the B. & P. railroad about 90 young men from DuBois and vicinity. These young men make up the second contingent of 40 per cent of the quota for District No. 2.

Yesterday the recruits reported in DuBois, assembling at the Acorn club reception rooms, where a roll call was had. Out of the 101 summoned to appear, only fourteen were absent. Some of these are expected to report before the hour of departure arrives. It is certain that the required number will be on hand. That number, 85, were present at roll call. The young men were given preliminary instructions and then excused, some to return to their homes, others to remain in DuBois as the guests of the government. They re-assembled at 5 o'clock at which time the leaders were designated. J. J. McFamney, a former employee of the B. & S., was designated as "captain," with "Pete" Pifer as first lieutenant. There will be a main leader of the train with subleaders. The DuBois delegation will board the same train which bears the Ridgway quota of 105 men.

Last evening, in addition to the many private receptions that were held for various members of the quota, those who cared to attend, were guests of the city at the Avenue theater where they witnessed the production of "The Birth of a Nation." It is sufficient to say that they thoroughly enjoyed this exceptionally fine treat. The draftees were escorted to the theater by the Boys' Brigade band.

COURT NOTES

The libel suits instituted several years ago, against the DuBois Printing company and W. J. Hines by Jas. Mark and Patrick Egan, were placed on trial again yesterday. The suit that was instituted against Charles J. Bangert at the same time has been withdrawn. The cases have been tried several times and verdicts were given for the plaintiffs, but a retrial was ordered.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN FOR CAMP LIBRARIES

Date: Week commencing Sept. 24th, 1917.
Amount to be raised: $1,000,000.

Work assigned to the American Library Association by the U. S. Department of War: Commission on Training Camp activities.

General Supervision of the campaign has been placed in the hands of Mr. Harold Braddock who has been released by the Red Cross for that duty.

The General Director of the Campaign in Pennsylvania is the Hon. Thomas L. Montgomery, who has divided the state into seven districts.

The North-Central District of Pennsylvania includes the counties of Lycoming, Clinton, Clearfield, Jefferson, Potter, Montour, Northumberland, Center, Sullivan, Snyder, Tioga and Union. Mr. O. R. Howard Thompson of Williamsport has been appointed leader for this district.

The amount of money each town or city will be expected to raise will be approximately five per cent of its population translated into dollars; i. e., a town of 10,000 will be expected to raise $500.00; a town of 40,000 inhabitants $2,000.

Libraries of wood will be erected at each of the 32 national cantonments. Each will contain 8,000 to 10,000 volumes in addition to current magazines and each library will be administered by trained librarians.

The Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and other similar buildings will be used as distributing centers where ever advisable.

Slogan: "Books for soldiers."

It is estimated that $1.00 will provide one book for a soldier for three years. It is better for 20,000 persons to contribute $1.00 each than for four persons to contribute $500.00 each.

The project has received the hearty approval of the President of the United States, the Secretary of War; Bishop Vincent has bestowed upon the proposition the warmest eulogiums; the Rockefeller Foundation has contributed to the fund to promote the campaign.

Dr. E. C. eave has been appointed to receive the money from Clearfield. Our apportionment is $325. Everyone, every church, every fraternal organization do your bit. This is for our boys.

THEY ARE MISINFORMED

Harrisburg, Sept. 20.—Lacking any means to learn exactly what licentious liquor dealers are doing, the Capitol generally believes that saloons and other places throughout the state are complying with the governor's request to suspend business entirely on each day until after the selective draft men are out of town.

The governor preferred this request by formal proclamation last night, after announcing twenty-four hours previously that it was to be expected.

It means suspension of business for parts of three days for each man who complies. Liquor places were closed yesterday until 8 p. m. on account of the primaries. On Sunday, the final day for departure of national army men, they can't be open at all.

The governor's idea is to have all liquor places closed on entertainment days "until the soldiers have gone forth" from each community.

OSCEOLA THE GREATEST

Our correspondent at Osceola reports that there were eight bands in the send off parade given the soldiers who departed from there yesterday for Camp Lee.

CHANGE IN AEROPLANE SCHEDULE

In addition to the regular aeroplane flight this afternoon at 4:30 p. m. there will be another about dusk, probably about 7 p. m. at which time Prof. Williams will ascend to the summit of an electrical display and will drop bombs while in the air.

DuBois Newspaper Man Takes Coat From The Athletic Show Wrestling

L. F. Mohny, vice president of the Courier Publishing company, is a mat artist as much as a newspaper man. This fact he demonstrated to a large crowd at the Fair yesterday when he accepted the challenge of the muscular Hercules who holds forth at the athletic show at the Fair grounds. Mohny, in company with other officials of the company, spent yesterday afternoon in town and while taking in the attractions along the Midway they encountered the Athletic show where the Terrible Turk, or whatever he might be, was coaxing for someone to come in and stay with him on the wrestling mat. In fact he wanted to demonstrate his strength and so well that he offered $1 per minute to the man who could defeat him from a throw for a period of ten minutes. Well, $1 per minute is like a mountain to any man, and Mohny simply could bear to see all that good money by. It didn't go by either. The regular marvel of the exhibition to throw Mohny and the changed ownership. Mohny decided he needed a little more help out on old H. C. L. so he went a while longer at the rate of $1 per minute. He left undefeated.

Government Chemist Finds Way To Extract Gasoline From Fuel Oil

Washington, Sept. 20.—Like miracle-workers of old Uncle Sam is extracting riches from the air. Embattled behind their test-tubes and Bansen burners, government chemists are doing the things that can't be done. The latest "impossible" achievement is a new method of obtaining gasoline.

The new method consists of robbing gasoline from natural gas by "absorption." By the new method, the gasoline in natural gas though extremely lean, can be absorbed in oil from which it is separated by distillation. Natural gases yielding less than one pint of gasoline from each thousand cubic feet of gas have been treated with success, where formerly this gasoline went to waste and in addition constituted a clogging nuisance and expense in pipes.

This new absorption process is likely to supplant the older compression and condensation method by which about 165,000,000 gallons of gasoline were produced in the last two years.

Gasoline thus obtained is especially valuable, for it can be blended with naphtha otherwise unsatisfactory for automobile use and hereby made into an acceptable motor spirit. The absorption method is radically different. At present it is restricted to the treatment of large volumes of gas to lean for profitable treatment by compression. But experts expect the value of the new process will be extended broadly.

Progress Information Bureau Popular Place

The Progress man and his megaphone in connection with The Progress Information Bureau at the Fair did yeoman service all day yesterday.

From locating parents and lost children he was right on the job and the stentorian tones of his megaphone relayed many a telephone call from the bureau. In one instance a little child became separated from its elder companions at the Fair and was located through the Bureau. In another instance it located the parents of a child in Clearfield by telephone and advised them the child was in safe hands and would be returned.

The bulletin service during the day and the primary returns in the evening until eleven o'clock made hit with the crowd which thronged the Exposition. Each event was scheduled it was announced from the Bureau and the way the crowd vanished after announcement it was doubtless appreciated.

The historical exhibit under direction of The Progress Bureau was by all means the feature of the Exposition Hall. Vast crowds kept filing by listening to the explanation of the two attendants in charge. "The Bureau will be open this afternoon and if you want to locate anybody at the Fair simply call The Progress Bureau at the Fair grounds and every effort will be made to locate the person."

"TAKE CARE OF THE THOMPSON BUNCH!"

He was twenty-one and he was having the time of his young life. He was going to war.

It was the 5th of September in Chicago. The city's mayor was in hiding. He had outraged the city and the nation by inviting the traitorous People's Council to meet in his city. So he was hiding at the home of his pro-German boss, while the first contingent of drafted men from Chicago were waiting in the grimy old Union Station for their train to pull out for Camp Grant.

The kid was one of the contingent. He was in his glory. The train platform had been cleared, a pair of Italian barbers of the contingent were strumming their guitars, and the kid was tangoing gleefully and indiscriminately with every pretty girl within reach. And they were all pretty to him then and he to them.

He was a good dancer. He was a good tennis player. He was a well dressed, happy kid.

Then the train moved. He dropped his partner and leaped aboard. A few seconds later he stuck his head out of a car window, and in those few seconds he had changed. He was serious. As he looked at the crowd a big thought had smitten him, and that's hard on a happy kid of twenty-one.

He looked at the group of us who weren't going. He was trying to put something big in words, and he was only twenty-one.

And then it came. "Say, you fellows," he said, stammering a little, "you know you gotta take care of the other kind—that Thompson bunch—while we're away."—And that was his goodbye.

Well? How about it? Are we doing it? Are we taking care of the "other kind?" Are we fighting the enemy at home, while the kid is away?

Emphatically—we are NOT!

Mayor Thompson of Chicago is only a symptom. He could not exist an hour without his supporting horde of anti-American pro-Germans. He knows it. "Big Bill" is a stupid man, but he knows. He and his bosses are in direct contact with the class they cater to. And they know that the traitorous anti-American element is strong in Chicago alone that it is good politics to cater openly to them.

Think of it! In our second city the enemy is strong enough to inspire a stupid mayor to open traitorism. It is strong enough to kill the kid by thousands. Not openly, no. But by its snapping and snarling it can prolong the war. To German eyes we are made to appear a nation rotten at the roots; to Russia's eyes we are made to appear a divided people. And the German army in the field continues to fight with confidence because of the aid which the enlisted German army in our midst lends to it.

The kid has gone to war. It we are fit to be called Americans we will fight the good fight at home also.

We will "take care of the other kind—the Thompson bunch—while he's away."

ANNIVERSARY OF PAOLI

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 20.—Exercises have been arranged to take place this afternoon on the monument grounds near Malvern in commemoration of the 130th anniversary of the Massacre of Paoli.

It was on the night of Sept. 20, 1877, that the troops commanded by General Anthony Wayne, following the retreat from the battle of Brandywine, were surprised by the British general, afterwards known as "Flintless" Gray. The British commander forbade his men to fire a shot and to make sure of it, took away their flints, whence came his nickname "Flintless." The night was intensely dark, and the Hessians fell upon the Americans without warning, and bayoneted them. Only the military genius of General Wayne prevented the destruction of the entire body of troops. During the remainder of the Revolution the battle cry which fired the hearts and strengthened the arms of the patriots was "Remember Paoli."

ITALIANS' DAY TO CELEBRATE

New York, Sept. 20.—Italians the

world over, and especially in the United States, will celebrate with unusual fervor today the great anniversary of Italian union and liberty under a native royal rouse. The day marks the forty-seventh anniversary of the entry of the King of Italy's troops into Rome. In this connection it is interesting to recall that the Italian troops on that occasion were led by General Cadorna, father of the present general, of that name who of late has been achieving such signal victories over the Austrians as commander-in-chief of the Italian army.

Close View of Secret Service Chief Flynn

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—Sitting daily at his desk in the treasury building or perhaps closeted in conference with some of his subordinates in his private office, is a big jovial appearing man who is one of the busiest officials in Washington in these stirring times, but who goes about his work so quietly and unobtrusively that his name seldom appears in print.

He is William J. Flynn, chief of the United States secret service, the man who is chiefly charged with the responsibility of hunting down enemy aliens and who, through his many subordinates in the service, keeps a watchful eye on countless anarchists, suspected spies, leaders of the I. W. W., and others whose ill-advised activities and utterances might jeopardize the public safety and welfare.

Chief Flynn is now completing his fifth year as head of the United States secret service. It was in December, 1912, that he was appointed to succeed John E. Wilkie in the position. For many years prior to his appointment as chief he had been in charge of the New York division of the secret service and at one time he held the position of deputy police commissioner of New York City.

Chief Flynn is only 4 years old, and has been identified with his present line of business for about 25 years. In 1893 he was a tinsmith in New York City. In the following year Edward Tamsen was elected sheriff of New York county and Flynn ceased to be a tinsmith to become a keeper in Ludlow street jail. That was the beginning of his career which brought him into prominence as a detective.

When Tamsen's term as sheriff expired the New York friends of Flynn got him a position in the secret service, and he made good from the start, and soon started to climb higher in the service.

As a secret service agent Flynn became the terror of counterfeiters. Only a week before he was appointed to the head of the service he personally led a raid in the lower part of New York city that uncovered one of the most skillfully operated counterfeit plants ever confiscated by the secret service, and with the plant he captured the men who owned and operated it, and they were making money when he and his men forced their way into the bogus mint.

That's the way that Flynn operates. In 1903 an Italian named Benedetto Madonia was murdered in New York. The body was found in a barrel. Flynn identified the body as that of a man who had been mixed up in the counterfeiting gang, and that he had been murdered because he had proved a traitor to the other criminals. For years Flynn worked on the case—years after the police stopped working—and in 1910 he arrested the men who he was morally certain committed the crime. He got them for counterfeiting, and they were both sent to the penitentiary, one for thirty and the other for twenty-five years.

While located in New York he was granted leave of absence to accept the position of second deputy police commissioner of the New York Police department. That job is one of the unpleasant memories of Chief Flynn's long career. He went in with the intention of bringing the New York detective bureau up to date, and it is generally admitted he would have succeeded had he been given a free hand and not been interfered with by those whose activities should have been outside the detective bureau.

Chief Flynn is a powerful man physically. He is a man of few words, yet with a big heart, and he's a jovial companion when you don't talk to him about what the secret service happens to be doing. He is married and has a houseful of children. Gardening and baseball are his principal fads.

Arnold and Norris Winners On Republican Ticket and Welch And Gorman On Democratic

Full Returns Not Yet Available But Early Returns Indicate That These Men Will Be Standard Bearers

POLLUM IS THE NOMINEE FOR CORONER

There was a light vote polled all over Clearfield county yesterday and in consequence thereof the prognosticators are holding up their forecasts until all the returns are in. By reason of the smallness of the vote it will be hard to determine the winners in several cases until virtually every district is heard from.

On the Republican ticket John Arnold, of DuBois, has been nominated for district attorney, with Wesley P. Norris, of Clearfield, likely the winner for sheriff and Dr. J. I. Pollum, of DuBois, for coroner and Carl Anderson of Cooper for jury commissioner.

The contest is much closer on the Democratic ticket although Walter Welch looks safe for re-nomination as district attorney, while A. M. Gorman of LaJosa, is in the lead for sheriff. Albert Y. Straw will likely be re-named for jury commissioner. Dr. Lewis Rowles, of Clearfield, may be named for coroner, although many DuBois Democrats wrote in the name of Dr. Pollum, one of the Republican candidates.

DUBOIS ARRANGING GREAT SEND OFF FOR SOLDIERS

Men Were Entertained at Performance of Birth of a Nation

This is the day; a day that will be remembered by DuBois people for a long time. It will witness the largest exodus of young men for the new national army ever sent out from here. It is possibly not the largest group that ever left for war but it is the largest number ever sent out for the national army. They will depart at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon on a special train over the B. & P. railroad about 90 young men from DuBois and vicinity. These young men make up the second contingent of 40 per cent. of the quota for District No. 2.

Yesterday the recruits reported in DuBois, assembling at the Acorn club reception rooms, where a roll call was had. Out of the 101 summoned to appear, only fourteen were absent. Some of these are expected to report before the hour of departure arrives. It is certain that the required number will be on hand. That number, 85, were present at roll call. The young men were given preliminary instructions and then excused, some to return to their homes, others to remain in DuBois as the guests of the government. They re-assembled at 5 o'clock at which time the leaders were designated. J. J. McFamney, a former employee of the B. & S., was designated as "captain," with "Pete" Pifer as first lieutenant. There will be a main leader of the train with subleaders. The DuBois delegation will board the same train which bears the Ridgway quota of 105 men.

Last evening, in addition to the many private receptions that were held for various members of the quota, those who cared to attend, were guests of the city at the Avenue theater where they witnessed the production of "The Birth of a Nation." It is sufficient to say that they thoroughly enjoyed this exceptionally fine treat. The draftees were escorted to the theater by the Boys' Brigade band.

COURT NOTES

The libel suits instituted several years ago, against the DuBois Printing company and W. J. Hines by Jas. Mark and Patrick Egan, were placed on trial again yesterday. The suit that was instituted against Charles J. Bangert at the same time has been withdrawn. The cases have been tried several times and verdicts were given for the plaintiffs, but a retrial was ordered.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN FOR CAMP LIBRARIES

Date: Week commencing Sept. 24th, 1917.
Amount to be raised: $1,000,000.

Work assigned to the American Library Association by the U. S. Department of War: Commission on Training Camp Activities.

General Supervision of the campaign has been placed in the hands of Mr. Harold Braddock who has been released by the Red Cross for that duty.

The General Director of the Campaign in Pennsylvania is the Hon. Thomas L. Montgomery, who has divided the state into seven districts.

The North-Central District of Pennsylvania includes the counties of Lycoming, Clinton, Clearfield, Jefferson, Potter, Montour, Northumberland, Center, Sullivan, Snyder, Tioga and Union. Mr. O. R. Howard Thompson of Williamsport has been appointed leader for this district.

The amount of money each town or city will be expected to raise will be approximately five per cent. of its population translated into dollars; i. e., a town of 10,000 will be expected to raise $500.00; a town of 40,000 inhabitants $2,000.

Libraries of wood will be erected at each of the 32 national cantonments. Each will contain 8,000 to 10,000 volumes in addition to current magazines and each library will be administered by trained librarians.

The Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and other similar buildings will be used as distributing centers where ever advisable.

Slogan: "Books for soldiers."

It is estimated that $1.00 will provide one book for a soldier for three years. It is better for 20,000 persons to contribute $1.00 each than for four persons to contribute $500.00 each.

The project has received the hearty approval of the President of the United States, the Secretary of War; Bishop Vincent has bestowed upon the proposition the warmest eulogiums; the Rockefeller Foundation has contributed to the fund to promote the campaign.

Dr. E. C. eave has been appointed to receive the money from Clearfield. Our apportionment is $325. Everyone, every church, every fraternal organization do your bit. This is for our boys.

THEY ARE MISINFORMED

Harrisburg, Sept. 20.—Lacking any means to learn exactly what liquor dealers are doing, the Capitol generally believes that saloons and other places throughout the state are complying with the governor's request to suspend business entirely on each day until after the selective draft men are out of town.

The governor preferred this request by formal proclamation last night, after announcing twenty-four hours previously that it was to be expected.

It means suspension of business for parts of three days for each man who complies. Liquor places were closed yesterday until 8 p. m. on account of the primaries. On Sunday, the final day for departure of national arm men, they can't be open at all.

The governor's idea is to have all liquor places closed on entertainment days "until the soldiers have gone forth" from each community.

OSCEOLA THE GREATEST

Our correspondent at Osceola reports that there were eight bands in the send off parade given the soldiers who departed from there yesterday for Camp Lee.

CHANGE IN AEROPLANE SCHEDULE

DuBois Newspaper Man Takes Coat From The Athletic Show Wrestling

L. F. Mohny, vice president of the Courier Publishing company, is a mat artist as much as a newspaper man. This fact he demonstrated to a large crowd at the Fair yesterday when he accepted the challenge of the muscular Hercules who holds forth at the athletic show at the Fair grounds. Mohny, in company with other officials of the company, spent yesterday afternoon in town and while taking in the attractions along the Midway they encountered the Athletic show where the Terrible Turk, or whatever he might be, was coaxing for someone to come in and stay with him on the wrestling mat. In fact he wanted to demonstrate his strength and so well that he offered $1 per minute to the man who could defeat him from a throw for a period of ten minutes. Well, $1 per minute is like a mountain to any man, and Mohny simply could bear to see all that good money by. It didn't go by either. The regular marvel of the exhibition to throw Mohny and the changed ownership. Mohny decided he needed a little more help out on old H. C. L. so he went a while longer at the rate of $1 per minute. He left undefeated.

Government Chemist Finds Way To Extract Gasoline From Fuel Oil

Washington, Sept. 20.—Like miracle-workers of old Uncle Sam is extracting riches from the air. Embattled behind their test-tubes and Bansen burners, government chemists are doing the things that can't be done. The latest "impossible" achievement is a new method of obtaining gasoline.

The new method consists of robbing gasoline from natural gas by "absorption." By the new method, the gasoline in natural gas though extremely lean, can be absorbed in oil from which it is separated by distillation. Natural gases yielding less than one pint of gasoline from each thousand cubic feet of gas have been treated with success, where formerly this gasoline went to waste and in addition constituted a clogging nuisance and expense in pipes.

This new absorption process is likely to supplant the older compression and condensation method by which about 165,000,000 gallons of gasoline were produced in the last two years.

Gasoline thus obtained is especially valuable, for it can be blended with naphtha otherwise unsatisfactory for automobile use and hereby made into an acceptable motor spirit. The absorption method is radically different. At present it is restricted to the treatment of large volumes of gas to lean for profitable treatment by compression. But experts expect the value of the new process will be extended broadly.

Progress Information Bureau Popular Place

The Progress man and his megaphone in connection with The Progress Information Bureau at the Fair did yeoman service all day yesterday.

From locating parents and lost children he was right on the job and the stentorian tones of his megaphone related many a telephone call from the bureau. In one instance a little child became separated from its elder companions at the Fair and was located through the Bureau. In another instance it located the parents of a child in Clearfield by telephone and advised them the child was in safe hands and would be returned.

The bulletin service during the day and the primary returns in the evening until eleven o'clock made a hit with the crowd which thronged the Exposition. Each event was scheduled it was announced from the Bureau and the way the crowd vanished after announcement it was doubtless appreciated.

The historical exhibit under direction of The Progress Bureau was by all means the feature of the Exposition Hall. Vast crowds kept filing by listening to the explanation of the two attendants in charge. "The Bureau will be open this afternoon and if you want to locate anybody at the Fair simply call The Progress Bureau at the Fair grounds and every effort will be made to locate the person."

"TAKE CARE OF THE THOMPSON BUNCH!"

He was twenty-one and he was having the time of his young life. He was going to war.

It was the 5th of September in Chicago. The city's mayor was in hiding. He had outraged the city and the nation by inviting the traitorous People's Council to meet in his city. So he was hiding at the home of his pro-German boss, while the first contingent of drafted men from Chicago were waiting in the grimy old Union Station for their train to pull out for Camp Grant.

The kid was one of the contingent. He was in his glory. The train platform had been cleared, a pair of Italian barbers of the contingent were strumming their guitars, and the kid was tangoing gleefully and indiscriminately with every pretty girl within reach. And they were all pretty to him then and he to them.

He was a good dancer. He was a good tennis player. He was a well dressed, happy kid.

Then the train moved. He dropped his partner and leaped aboard. A few seconds later he stuck his head out of a car window, and in those few seconds he had changed. He was serious. As he looked at the crowd a big thought had smitten him, and that's hard on a happy kid of twenty-one.

He looked at the group of us who weren't going. He was trying to put something big in words, and he was only twenty-one.

And then it came. "Say, you fellows," he said, stammering a little, "you know you gotta take care of the other kind—that Thompson bunch—while we're away." And that was his goodbye.

Well? How about it? Are we doing it? Are we taking care of the "other kind?" Are we fighting the enemy at home, while the kid is away?

Emphatically—we are NOT!

Mayor Thompson of Chicago is only a symptom. He could not exist an hour without his supporting horde of anti-American pro-Germans. He knows it. "Big Bill" is a stupid man, but he knows. He and his bosses are in direct contact with the class they cater to. And they know that the traitorous anti-American element is strong in Chicago alone that it is good politics to cater openly to them.

Think of it! In our second city the enemy is strong enough to inspire a stupid mayor to open traitorism. It is strong enough to kill the kid by thousands. Not openly, no. But by its snapping and snarling it can prolong the war. To German eyes we are made to appear a nation rotten at the roots; to Russia's eyes we are made to appear a divided people. And the German army in the field continues to fight with confidence because of the aid which the enlisted German army in our midst lends to it.

The kid has gone to war. It we are fit to be called Americans we will fight the good fight at home also.

We will "take care of the other kind—the Thompson bunch—while he's away."

ANNIVERSARY OF PAOLI

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 20.—Exercises have been arranged to take place this afternoon on the monument grounds near Malvern in commemoration of the 130th anniversary of the Massacre of Paoli.

It was on the night of Sept. 20, 1877, that the troops commanded by General Anthony Wayne, following the retreat from the battle of Brandywine, were surprised by the British general, afterwards known as "Flintless" Gray. The British commander forbade his men to fire a shot and to make sure of it, took away their flints, whence came his nickname "Flintless."

The night was intensely dark, and the Hessians fell upon the Americans without warning, and bayoneted them. Only the military genius of General Wayne prevented the destruction of the entire body of troops. During the remainder of the Revolution the battle cry which fired the hearts and strengthened the arms of the patriots was "Remember Paoli."

ITALIANS' DAY TO CELEBRATE

world over, and especially in the United States, will celebrate with unusual fervor today the great anniversary of Italian union and liberty under a native royal rouse. The day marks the forty-seventh anniversary of the entry of the King of Italy's troops into Rome. In this connection it is interesting to recall that the Italian troops on that occasion were led by General Cadorna, father of the present general, of that name who of late has been achieving such signal victories over the Austrians as commander-in-chief of the Italian army.

Close View of Secret Service Chief Flynn

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—Sitting daily at his desk in the treasury building or perhaps closeted in conference with some of his subordinates in his private office, is a big jovial appearing man who is one of the busiest officials in Washington in these stirring times, but who goes about his work so quietly and unobtrusively that his name seldom appears in print.

He is William J. Flynn, chief of the United States secret service, the man who is chiefly charged with the responsibility of hunting down enemy aliens and who, through his many subordinates in the service, keeps a watchful eye on countless anarchists, suspected spies, leaders of the I. W. W., and others whose ill-advised activities and utterances might jeopardize the public safety and welfare.

Chief Flynn is now completing his fifth year as head of the United States secret service. It was in December, 1912, that he was appointed to succeed John E. Wilkie in the position. For many years prior to his appointment as chief he had been in charge of the New York division of the secret service and at one time he held the position of deputy police commissioner of New York City.

Chief Flynn is only 4 years old, and has been identified with his present line of business for about 25 years. In 1893 he was a tinsmith in New York City. In the following year Edward Tamsen was elected sheriff of New York county and Flynn ceased to be a tinsmith to become a keeper in Ludlow street jail. That was the beginning of his career which brought him into prominence as a detective.

When Tamsen's term as sheriff expired the New York friends of Flynn got him a position in the secret service, and he made good from the start, and soon started to climb higher in the service.

As a secret service agent Flynn became the terror of counterfeiters. Only a week before he was appointed to the head of the service he personally led a raid in the lower part of New York city that uncovered one of the most skillfully operated counterfeit plants ever confiscated by the secret service, and with the plant he captured the men who owned and operated it, and they were making money when he and his men forced their way into the bogus mint.

That's the way that Flynn operates. In 1903 an Italian named Benedetto Madonia was murdered in New York. The body was found in a barrel. Flynn identified the body as that of a man who had been mixed up in the counterfeiting gang, and that he had been murdered because he had proved a traitor to the other criminals. For years Flynn worked on the case—years after the police stopped working—and in 1910 he arrested the men who he was morally certain committed the crime. He got them for counterfeiting, and they were both sent to the penitentiary, one for thirty and the other for twenty-five years.

While located in New York he was granted leave of absence to accept the position of second deputy police commissioner of the New York Police department. That job is one of the unpleasant memories of Chief Flynn's long career. He went in with the intention of bringing the New York detective bureau up to date, and it is generally admitted he would have succeeded had he been given a free hand and not been interfered with by those whose activities should have been outside the detective bureau.

Chief Flynn is a powerful man physically. He is a man of few words, yet with a big heart, and he's a jovial companion when you don't talk to him about what the secret service happens to be doing. He is married and has a houseful of children. Gardening and baseball are his principal fads.

The necessity for waiting, however, is obviated if you select your new hat here. All you need to know is the color of your contemplated garment—the remainder we take care of. We are showing for Fall wear, turbans, tams, sailors and tricornes of every conceivable description.

Trimmings are principally high, the effect being attained by the shaping or draping of the crown, by the skillful posing of the trimming or by the careful manipulation of an upturned brim. Trimmings are of beads, grosgrain ribbons or feather novelties. Colorings are new shades of gray, rust, red and browns and shining golds.
